Roberto Giovannini dressed up for ISaloni 2014...

Roberto Giovannini is a historical company renowned for the production of classic carved furniture that proposes its own style and a stylishly sophisticated taste. After last year's gorgeous result, Roberto Giovannini continues his collaboration with the Interior Design Studio Sagi by Marra brothers, skilled masters capable to interpret Florentine company's work with character and strong personality. The atmosphere in Roberto Giovannini's ambience is that of a "gala night" where furnishings wear "evening dresses" thanks to finishes, fabrics and accessories thus becoming the absolute protagonists.

Shapeliness of the new collection is enhanced by the elegance of 2014 nuances: Noir, Nero Fiammingo and Nature, perfectly mixed with traditional gold, silver and white finishes. Precious fabrics such as silk and velvets blend into less obvious textures from the world of fashion like Tartans and Prince of Wales, resulting in combinations full of personality and good taste. The choice of precious marbles, onyx, and the use of coloured crystals and mirrors help making every corner a view in front of which lingering and getting inspired. All of these results into perfectly decorated residential environments where luxury, refinement of details, harmony of form and substance find their highest expression.

This year's MCE in Milan was enriched by a fresh new exhibitor – Zavar Design from Skopje, Macedonia and their high - end design product – stainless steel radiators.

Zavar Design's bold products, upon first look are often mistaken as sculptures. They are a statement of perfect taste and subtle luxury. But these works of art are also high-end engineering projects, as they are stainless steel radiators that are fully functional and are emitting heat with every piece of their immaculately designed body.

The design power behind this engineering extravaganza is Marta Naumovska – Ornarova, owner and managing director of Zavar Design, mechanical engineer with big passion for art and design. The artist in her could not forego the passion of creating. And the engineer could not let the designer design just a mask that would hide the seemingly ugly heating device.

It all started in 2004, and has since developed into 8 series - Drop, Identity, Atomic, Front, Tangent, Box, Alphabet and Bathroom. Each of them has a unique theme, and they all feature Marta's sophisticated design handwriting. They are sold in different countries all around the globe. Upon request, Zavar Design can also produce customized home accessories that accompany the design radiator and add further touches of modernity to the space.
